Company summary, July 2026

What Puzha does

Puzha Foods buys directly from 620 contracted farmers in Thrissur and Palakkad, processes at its own plant into six minimally processed SKUs, and sells through 410 modern trade doors plus its own direct to consumer channel.

Why it works

- Kerala grows more jackfruit, tender coconut and banana than it consumes, and a large share is never harvested for want of a buyer.
- Own processing rather than bought pulp, which is where seven points of margin came from.
- The direct channel tells the company which SKU to put in which store.
- Farmers are paid in seven days, which is why the contracted base keeps growing.

Where the business stands

Monthly revenue, July 2026	Rs 78 lakh
Modern trade share	62 percent, direct to consumer 38 percent
Retail doors live	410 across Kerala, Bengaluru and Chennai
Direct to consumer repeat rate	47 percent within 60 days
Gross margin	38 percent
Farmers under direct contract	620, principally Thrissur and Palakkad
Plant utilisation	64 percent of a single shift
Monthly burn	Rs 13.8 lakh

What the round funds

Working capital against the modern trade receivable, a second processing line taking the plant to two shifts, and marketing on the direct channel.
